Five Million for Dems

This year the democrats are hopeful that things will be different. They may easily raise a campaign fund of $5,000,000. The republicans may raise even more, so there is reason to believe that in the national political strong boxes there will be gathered approximately $15,000,000 for electing the president.

68 Congressmen on Blacklist and Will Be Opposed by Others

Washington.—The national executive committee of the La Follette presidential campaign was called together for its first meeting here today. 10 men and women, to whom the Wisconsin senator yesterday delegated practically complete authority to unshrink the organization of his supporters cope with the technical details of his nationwide campaign, were summoned for the meeting, which promised to be prolonged. Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, the national campaign manager and chairman of the committee, was asked to come from Chicago to preside at the sessions.

Discipline Committee.
The committee was authorized to introduce a measure of discipline into the La Follette campaign, although a strict political organization was still avoided. Among its principal problems of this kind were questions affecting the selection of presidential electors, and endorsement of candidates seeking to run with the general La Follette endorsement for office in several states. Plans for financing the campaign also are before the committee. Though stories of a large campaign fund—$5,000,000 or $5,000,000—were denied by leaders in the movement, it was declared money was needed and was being sought.

Appeal for Funds.
Alexander Kahn, publisher of a Jewish newspaper in New York City, has taken over the task of appealing to the needle trades union, while the national officers of other unions concerned have circulated their appeals for money. Substantial amounts are reckoned on from these sources, to be supplemented by a more general appeal at the direction of the committee.

68 Congressmen Taboo.
Sixty-eight Republican and fifteen Democratic members of Congress seeking re-election will be opposed by the La Follette forces in thirteen states.

This list is final for seven states, but may be changed.

As it stands the ones on the final list who will be opposed are reactionaries by the Independent Progressives are:

COMMUNITY TENT NEW FAIR FEATURE

Diversified Program of Gay Entertainment Promised at Evansville.

The "Community Tent" at the Rock County fair, Evansville, will be a striking innovation and promise to be a stellar attraction. The program has been prepared with great care and offers an array of the best talent combined from all parts of Rock county. Here will be heard Peter Templeton, the American Harry Lauder, the New York orchestra, the Deloit V. M. C. A. indoor carnival, Madame Florent and Co.

These and a hundred other features will furnish a new kind of entertainment for the crowds who will come to the fair from throughout Rock and neighboring counties. This is a new departure in the line of air attractions and the outcome will be watched with interest not only by the fair management but by state leaders who are interested in making the county fairs real community get-together events.

But do not think for one moment that home talent, extraordinary as this talent is, will be all that the "Pumpkin Show" will afford in the way of diversion. The management announces that it has engaged the largest free act program of high class vaudeville ever presented in Rock county at a fair or elsewhere. On each of the four days and nights of the "Pumpkin Show" a program of vaudeville will be presented by the following: Harry Cavilla, famous clown; the Great Harry Bauer; The Edwards Trio; Amy Butler and her Jazz Band; The LaFollette Trio; The LaFollette Trio; The LaFollette Trio.

The managers of this fair have undertaken to set a pace for county fairs the country over and it appears that they are going to succeed in a large way.

MAY TRY ELECTRIC TRAFFIC DEVICE

Plan Trial Demonstration of Automatic System at One Intersection.

Janesville may be given opportunity to experiment with the operation of an automatic "Stop and Go" signal lighting system this summer through negotiations being carried on by City Manager Henry Traxler with the Crouse-Hinds company, Syracuse, N. Y., and the Wisconsin Electric Sales company, Janesville.

It is proposed to have one of the electrically operated traffic regulation devices installed for a four months' free trial at the city's busiest intersection, Main and Milwaukee streets.

The original offer of the two companies was for the installation of signals at three intersections with simultaneous control and for a four months' trial period. Believing the operation of three such regulators impracticable in Janesville, Mr. Traxler has asked the Syracuse company to confine its free trial of-

TRACTORS AGAIN BEING MADE HERE

Townsend Tractor Company Goes Ahead With Increased Production.

Tractors are again a part of Janesville's diversified line of manufactured products with the Townsend Tractor company enjoying a business that is encouraging to the management, and declared to be better than at any time in its history. The plant is now operating as it has been since March, with a production of four or five mammoth 60 horsepower tractors weekly.

The Townsend factory is under the management of Roy Townsend, former president in business, who is working under an arrangement with P. H. Jackson, trustee of the property under orders of the United States district court in bankruptcy. Reorganization and recapitalization may be warranted sometime in the future if business conditions continue as favorable to tractor manufacturing as they have the past season, it was said.

Road and Meadow

Road contractors and those doing custom moving are in the main creating the market for the 60 horse power product of the local plant. A few of the lighter tractors, 40 horsepower are being made but the factory has been engaged most of the time in building the heavier machine. Business has come from the middle western states, Wisconsin and the five bordering upon it. Conditions in all of these local promising except Illinois where the prospects for the tractor are not as good as in former years, Mr. Townsend said.

In the interim in which the Townsend plant has been shut down, has come a great change in the tractor business which has brightened the outlook for manufacturers. This has come through the discontinuance of manufacture of all tractors, 40 and under, by the International Harvester company of Edgerton has moved more activity at the tractor plant.

Work at Local Plant

All of the machine work and assembling of the tractors is done at the local plant. The castings and steel is obtained from Chicago, Deloit and Milwaukee plants. Manufacture of axles for the Continental axle company of Edgerton has moved more activity at the tractor plant.

Mr. Townsend, with the bettering conditions indicated through the grain belts and in other farming areas, is anticipating a good business next season, and one that will be indicated earlier in the year to permit the factory meeting the demand. Several orders were returned at this time because they came too late to be filled.

Band Concert Draws Crowd

Despite the cool weather, which brought many out in wraps, the fifth of the series of weekly concerts by the Edgerton band, held in the grounds of the court house park, Thursday night, was attended by as large a number as usual.

Opening with the Ullinatum march, and followed by several classical selections, including the famous Humoresque, the concert was one of the audience in the park. A trombone solo by Dave Drummond was received with much favor, and he responded to an encore.

TRAVEL 3,500 MILES ON EASTERN TOUR

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wood have returned to Janesville following an automobile trip to Boston, where Mr. Wood attended the national convention of the ELKS.

The trip to Boston was begun June 28, the couple arriving there July 4. The itinerary included South Bend, Cleveland, Buffalo and the Mohawk trail from Buffalo to Boston.

More than 2,500 delegates attended the convention, according to Mr. Wood, although the representation from Wisconsin was very small. Mr. Wood, a member of the local lodge, was named grand exalted ruler.

On the return trip, Mr. and Mrs. Wood visited several cities in Canada including Quebec, Toronto and Montreal. The total trip amounted to about 3,500 miles. The entire route going east, with the exception of a small stretch in Indiana, according to Mr. Wood, is paved and abounds in interesting points.

KOCH IN COURT TO HEAR EVIDENCE IN NEGRO'S DEATH

Mr. Miller said he found a bottle partially filled with liquor in the car he was driving, and described his conduct while being taken to the station. Coroner John Whaley, who conducted the inquest, testified concerning Koch's condition the following morning, when he seemed to be recovering from the effects of liquor, and described the path taken by the car before and after it struck Campbell and the two others.

Other witnesses called were John Kalas and T. Spidiker, with the carnival company, playing at Palm Beach, the resort in front of which the accident took place, and Dr. W. C. Molans, of Beloit, and Earl Flaherty, Chicago. Kalas and Spidiker were first on the scene after the accident and assisted the two who were injured. Flaherty helped Miller at the police station and returned to the resort with him. Dr. Molans told the jury that death was

The City of Janesville

Ninety miles to Chicago, 71 miles to Milwaukee, 41 miles to Madison, 20 miles to Janesville. Population 20,000. (Census 1920, 18,200.) The city is located on the banks of the Koshong river, one of the largest agricultural counties in the state of Wisconsin. Center of dairy and stock raising. Extensive manufacturing of machinery in Wisconsin. Settled in 1835. Home of the first state fair. The city was founded by James H. Smith, who was a great wheat grower and stock raiser. Many different industries have been established here, including iron and steel, wood, paper, and other industries. The city is a center of commerce and industry. The city is a member of the Associated Press.

Another Side to the Question.

In the matter of the child labor amendment to the constitution which several states have already voted on and others will later, there is, as on all questions, two sides. The storm of eloquence in favor of the bill took into consideration but one phase—the competition of children with adults in industries and the abuse of child labor, particularly in the cotton and woolen mill industries. The Georgia legislature refused to accept the amendment and the senate gave its reasons for so acting. They were that:

The said amendment is rejected because it would destroy parental authority and responsibility throughout the United States.

It would place in the hands of Congress a power to destroy agriculture and manufacturing at will.

It would create a centralized government far removed from the power of the people.

Georgia has neither the right nor the power to give to Congress the power to limit, regulate and prohibit child labor.

These same reasons are presented by others who claim that the child labor law as determined by the constitutional amendment is an entering wedge for state socialism and the children will be state charges and not parental. But we have already entered upon a paternalistic as well as socialistic stage in our benevolent attempts at regulating every thing under heavens by law—we refer to the Sheppard-Towner bill in reference to maternal care.

In spite of the Georgia senate's objections to the amendment, we are of the opinion that the amendment will carry in order to correct abuses which have been largely confined to southern states and which abuses those states have never been powerful enough to legislate against. It does not depend so much on the amendment as it does on the regulatory laws which will follow.

A Tragedy of Distribution.

Eight thousand ears of peaches, four million bushels, have been dumped into the rivers of Georgia and are floating away or hugging the shores to be a menace to health. It would be more serious were the country along the rivers more thickly populated. But the question at issue is not one of sanitation. There are thousands of families in the larger cities and smaller villages that are ready to eat all that 4,000,000 bushels of peaches had it been possible to get the fruit to them. All the early peaches are gone and only the later and more hardy Elbertas are going to market later.

Now, why should this be so? In the first place the crop was about twice what it was a year ago. Never was there such a peach crop in Georgia. The shipments have already reached 7,500 cars and last year the total was 3,701. The peaches thrown away amounted to last year's shipments in addition to the cars already sold. Peaches bring 50 cents a crate in New York, 40 cents in Georgia, hardly enough to pay for the crates and baskets.

This tragedy of the peaches again brings to us the emphatic need for a distribution of products which will avoid the enormous waste. A peach in Georgia is like a day in the tropics when it is in Wisconsin in winter—too far away to enjoy in the mildest weather. Nor will all the laws and legislation ever passed or advocated by a La Follette, a Brookhart or a Leoline, change the condition or make it better. It needs more than human contrivances and human machinery to solve a problem like this.

Tom Taggart says Davis will be elected. Tom Taggart said Ralston would be nominated for president. Tom may be a seer but not a sooth-sayer.

Governor Coming to Town.

The governor is coming to town, not on official business, but to tell why he should be governor again. A La Follette leader, in another column of this issue of the Gazette, tells why he should not be given the support of the followers of Robert M. senior. Mr. Gross is sure because the governor has taken the tools presented to him by the La Follette leaders two years ago and built a machine of his own, air tight and copper riveted, which makes it necessary for the La Follette people to deal with Mr. Blaine or be left out in the cold.

We gladly give this advertising to the governor's meeting. Last fall the Gazette did the same thing, provided the governor with a big audience by wide spread publicity of his coming and then he repaid the effort by talking for an hour against the Gazette. It is a nice, mild sport, releases the governor of a number of superfluous words and saves the boiler from blowing up.

INCOME TAXES ANALYZED

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Washington, D. C.—The shifting story of the income of the American people has just been told again by the Internal Revenue Bureau which annually compiles statistics derived from the tax records. Although a continued story, each year's chapter is quite different from the last. What gives the tale such extraordinary interest is that it reflects in terms of income the lives of the American people.

The fact of peculiar interest always is the crop of millions. It changes each year with the vicissitudes of national prosperity. The story necessarily is somewhat behind the life it reports in point of time. Taxes are imposed upon income and to know what to tax, the Government must take the income of the previous year as a basis of levy. Thus, in 1924, we are paying taxes on the money earned in 1923. The statistics can not all be compiled until the end of the year, in fact work of final compilation can not begin until then. Some months are required for preparation of the figures and therefore when the story emerges it relates to a past period. Thus, these new figures which have just been completed relate to the income of 1923.

In 1923 there were several thousand more millionaires in the country than in the previous year. There were 67 persons who enjoyed incomes of a million dollars and more. There were some 12,000 persons who had just about a million dollars each, and many more who received around $50,000 to $100,000 a year. There were 265 persons with incomes ranging from half a million to a million a year.

These figures reveal better times in 1923 than in 1921 when, for instance, there were but 21 persons with incomes of a million and over. Thus, in one year the number of such million dollar incomes trebled. In every income class there were substantial increases in 1923 over 1921. This reveals that the nation's wealth had been declining ever since the war. There were 141 in 1917, the year we went into the war; 67 in 1918; 65 in 1919; 33 in 1920; and only 21 in 1921. The year 1923 takes figure back to that of 1918 which was a year of great prosperity. Nineteen twenty-three was an active year in nearly all lines of business and it is possible a still further increase in big incomes will be shown.

One of the most extraordinary revolutions of the income compilations is a sort of figure which shows that the income derived by the American people from personal and professional services exceeds the profits of trade. Of the tax-paying income of the country $2.1 per cent was received for personal and professional services while only 11.2 per cent arose from the profits of trade.

A compilation of extraordinary interest is one which shows in general terms the sources from which the taxpayers derive their income. This table reveals that the nation's wealth had been declining ever since the war. There were 141 in 1917, the year we went into the war; 67 in 1918; 65 in 1919; 33 in 1920; and only 21 in 1921. The year 1923 takes figure back to that of 1918 which was a year of great prosperity. Nineteen twenty-three was an active year in nearly all lines of business and it is possible a still further increase in big incomes will be shown.

The query: "Where do the millionaires get their income?" is answered by the following table: "Take a millionaires with an income of $100,000 a year. The class of these numbering 12,000 derive their 1923 income in the following proportions: from salaries, 18.7 per cent; from trade, 6.2 per cent; from partnerships, 12.2 per cent; from profits on sales of real estate and securities, 3.5 per cent; from rents and royalties, 3.7 per cent; from interest and investments, 9.7 per cent; from Liberty bonds and other Government obligations, 4.1 per cent; dividends, 36.2 per cent; from other sources, 2.9 per cent. The average source of income to this millionaire class is dividends and the next salaries for services performed.

This tendency is even more marked as you go higher up in the scale of millionaires until it is found that the super-millionaires with incomes of a million a year and over, draw 46.9 per cent of their income from dividends while only 2.9 per cent came from salaries.

Now, the other end of the scale can be found. The class drawing $2,000 obtained 75.4 per cent from salaries and wages; 7.4 per cent from trade; 2.0 per cent from partnerships; 7.7 per cent from profits on real estate; 3.7 per cent from rents and royalties; 4.5 per cent from interest and investment income; .5 per cent from Government bonds; 1.4 per cent from dividends and .26 per cent from other sources.

The statistics are wholly anonymous. They do not show, save in the classification of Government bonds, from what kind of partnerships or business or investments the income accrued, but they do show what general types of work or investment produce income and in what proportion. Behind these impersonal tables is the whole story of personal struggle, of fortunate investments and bad ones, of jobs lost and new jobs found. Although as cold and austere as any table of figures, the annual income figures deal with the most human problems.

The most powerful argument which the governor carries about with him is the amount of money spent on the highways of the state. This is of course good political fodder, since his chief opponent was the state highway commissioner. But Mr. Blaine has had a change of heart over the highways. He has approved and signed all the contracts heretofore for highways and the very system he condemns has been in force for his four years in office. It was not until the last few months that he saw the error of his ways and condemns both the system and the roads we have. There are people in Wisconsin who know that we have the best road system in the country and for whatever aid the governor has heretofore given it, we are duly grateful. It is as though a man had built a good house and when he got peevish at one of the boss carpenters, took an axe and began to chop away the front porch. Mr. Blaine cannot abide with Mr. Hirst who is a man of brains, judgment and ability and did not feel that he should take orders from a lawyer out of Besenbach, as to how roads should be built.

Mr. Blaine is going to play a lone hand here. It would have been a grand opportunity so long as Janesville is not going to have a circus this year, to listen to a joint debate between the governor and Uncle George Goings. Uncle George may be wandering about after strange gods, but he is at least honest, and he has the same idea of honesty today as he held yesterday.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE ABSENTEE

The record shows I stole a day from duty. Results are all the record cares about. You cannot find it in one touch of beauty. The time-sheet merely marks me in or out.

The cashier when he turns the written pages Shall find a mark to note my presence there; He records his time computing toilers' wages. Cashiers have little sentiment to spare.

A year from now who turns the record over Shall see my name and say I lost a day; But nothing there shall help him to discover Just what it was that lured me far away.

He cannot see the swallows swiftly winging Above me as I follow a laughing stream; Nor catch one note of all that merry singing. The chorus to the opera of a dream.

Nothing will show my soul rejuvenated By the clean breeze of summer riding by. There but the grim result is coldly stated. That only counts, and not the reason why.

Yet I shall smile to count my lessened wages And brave the censure which such failure brings. Let the bleak record stand throughout the ages—Results are, after all, such sordid things. (Copyright, 1924, by Edgar A. Guest)

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1924.

Although the Sun in benefic aspect dominates this day, according to astrology there are influences making for uncertainty. Mars and Neptune are adverse.

This should be a most auspicious time under which the work of many days and those who look for employment should be most fortunate.

All who hold positions of authority are subject to the best direction of the stars today and should profit greatly.

There is an especially promising direction of the stars for political candidates, the planetary influences making for open-mindedness on the part of the public.

President Coolidge should benefit from the stars of benefic influence in his horoscope at this time, but should beware of sinister aspects later.

Many conflicting aspects have power during the next months when unrest and discontent will be widely prevalent.

Men and women are again warned that clandestine romances and love affairs under a government of the stars peculiarly unfortunate, making for murders as well as public scandals.

Vanity will be more and more evident among women, but this will be but the extreme of human nature at a time when intellect and logic will gain highest recognition, the seers declare.

The strong position of Mercury is favorable to the success of most undertakings, for the stars are most auspicious.

There is a forbidding sign for railway travel in certain parts of the United States. Accidents appear to be forecast.

The conjunction of Mars and the Moon causes astrology to predict a great deal of illness during the latter part of the summer when fevers and diseases of the digestive apparatus may be prevalent.

Persons born on this day may be headstrong and difficult to manage, but able to win success. These subjects of Leo usually obtain whatever they desire in life.

SENSIBLE MR. FREEHOFF

Assemblyman W. A. Freehoff of Waushara has sensibly announced his retirement as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the first Wisconsin district and has renounced the La Follette movement which he has openly opposed. The first district can decide definitely on a clear cut issue.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Cooper will see fit to make the issue one of the choice of all the voters on an independent ticket along with the man he is supporting for President. This is the only thing that would make the issue clear.

In his retirement Mr. Freehoff has shown that he values the Republican principles and Republicanism more than he does his own personal ambitions. Men who can take such a view of politics are entitled to more than passing consideration. Mr. Freehoff is a young man and some time in the future he may expect the party which he has supported to be in power.

NOT SO MANY SNAKES

In a discussion of snake bites and their first aid treatment May 13 I said:

First a kind word for the snakes. (This is like me—I can use a kind word for snakes, but never for human beings.) A faculty from snake bites in America is almost an unheard of thing. Even rattlesnake bites are rarely fatal and indeed they are seldom even dangerous to human life.

Experts assure us there are just four species of poisonous snakes in America— rattlesnakes, vipers, copperheads and moccasins. These are all pit vipers, that is, there are little pits or depressions in their heads over the eyes between the eyes and the nostrils. These pits are called "pits" and the venomous snake bites or rather strikes with his fangs, not with his tongue. The forked tongue of the common harmless snake is not a "stinger" as some people imagine.

Cut into a snake bite with the point of a razor or a penknife or a needle, just enough to make it bleed. Then suck the wound to draw out as much venom as possible. The venom is harmless if there is no wound or abrasion of the mouth. Bind something tightly over the wound to stop the bite as to impede the flow of blood and spread of venom. Otherwise treat the bite as a simple wound.

Perhaps the best antidote is a 5 per cent solution of potassium permanganate in water, injected with hypodermic syringe into the skin about and under the wound. Of course the things must be done promptly to be effective.

This brought several letters, some very abusive from people who maintained that snake bites are fatal to the thousands of victims in this country, but they have no facts, only their hearsay convictions. Some of the letters were calm in tone and the writers of these letters gave the reasons for questioning what I said about snakes. A few letters were from nature lovers who thanked me for enlightening the public about the poisonousness of snakes. For the few who deplore the cruelties inflicted on these beautiful creatures, usually harmless, under beneficent to man.

An English writer says that there are no true vipers in America, the Crotalinae (rattlesnakes) being a sub-family of the Viperidae, embracing four genera (not species), three of which are found in the United States—moccasins, pigmy rattlesnakes and rattlesnakes. The moccasins include copperheads and water moccasins. The moccasins group includes some 12 kinds—Texas rattlesnake, red, prairie, Pacific, dog faced, Pile's, tiger, horned, green, white, timber, and diamond back rattler. All have triangular heads and strike with fangs, my engineer friend advised, but he insists there are 18 species, at least. The latter is authoritative. Dr. J. H. Muller of the New York Zoological society, Dr. Stejneger of the national museum and W. A. Vroman of Denver, who has done much research work on poisonous and pernicious treatment.

Well, anyway there was our dog and another dog. The popular ignorance, superstition and fear of snakes is a bad thing from every point of view, and I do not think I understated the thing in my article. Probably there are more kinds of poisonous snakes than the four mentioned, but considering the way the whole snake question has been exaggerated on all sides I showed liberality in admitting that there are even four kinds capable of doing man any harm.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Henry J. Brady.
Please tell me if pure honey in the comb contains sugar or starch. My friend, a doctor said it contains 50 per cent of sugar. We are both being deceived. Dr. J. H. Muller of the New York Zoological society. Answer—Honey is a concentrated solution of sugar, mostly dextrose and levulose, and is not a sugar. It is practically the same as sugar in the diet of a diabetic.

Variety Is Spice of Life.
One of the main precepts of the building method of the human mind is to keep the mind active. A friend who was a doctor said it contains 50 per cent of sugar. We are both being deceived. Dr. J. H. Muller of the New York Zoological society. Answer—Honey is a concentrated solution of sugar, mostly dextrose and levulose, and is not a sugar. It is practically the same as sugar in the diet of a diabetic.

I have heard a lot of drinking, even daily is harmful. I drink one cup a day. Will this make me strong and healthy or not? I am 45, 56 pounds, black hair, black eyes, fair complexion, a freshener. (E. J. B.)

Answer—There is no such thing as a free lunch. If you are a connoisseur, I can tell you where to find a good lunch. If you are a connoisseur, I can tell you where to find a good lunch. If you are a connoisseur, I can tell you where to find a good lunch.

Call at the Office.
I will explain how to turn backward somersaults without breaking one's neck. (E. J. B.)

Answer—Come on over some time and I'll show you.

(Any reader can get the answer to a question by writing the Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C. This offer applies only to questions of a general nature and cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It is not intended to replace the professional services of a lawyer, doctor, or other expert. Questions should be sent direct to the Inquiry.)

Q. Who painted the tiny portraits of the King and queen in the throne room of the Queen's house at Windsor? A. V. T.

Q. One of the most celebrated of contemporary portrait painters executed these portraits—Sir William Orpen, I. A.

Q. Was iron ever used as money in this country? A. S. M.

Q. The war department says that the approximate cost to the United States government in putting a cadet through the course at the United States Military academy is $10,000 for the four years. This includes the average expenses such as room, board, and improvements to the academy, etc. The approximate cost of maintaining and educating a cadet exclusive of the overhead expenses is $6,253.34 for the four years.

Q. Does Uncle Sam really profit and lose the paper money that is considered lost? A. S. P.

A. The government charged off a certain amount of paper money as lost after the Chicago fire. This is the only time that this has been done. This government is not taken periodically. The government does not actually realize any profit from paper money which is lost, even though theoretically it does. The money is still held in the treasury vaults against outstanding paper currency and unless congress passed a bill that this money might be taken out of the reserve fund, no actual profit would be derived.

TODAY'S MARKET

GRAIN

Chicago Review.
 Chicago, July 25.—Influenced partly by an unexpected advance in Liverpool quotations, the wheat market here today took a decided upward swing. Further black news from Manitoba counted also as a bullish factor. The opening, which ranged from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4, was followed by a steady rise to 3 5/8, and then by a moderate sag.

Subsequently, material fresh gains were secured with Winnipeg leading the advance and with gossip current that export business by way of the Gulf of Mexico was in progress. All deliveries here established a new high record for the season. The close was unsettled, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 net higher, Sept. 11.25 to 11.30, and Dec. 11.25 to 11.30.

Corn and oats advanced with wheat after opening at 1/2 to 1/4 gain. Corn scored a material uptick all around. Some speculative buying tended later to strengthen the market. The close was firm, 1/2 to 1/4 net higher, Sept. 11.25 to 11.30, and Dec. 11.25 to 11.30.

Higher quotations on hogs gave stimulus to the provision market.

E.J. Gross, LaFollette Leader Tells Why Blaine Is Wrong

Milwaukee—E. J. Gross, La Follette leader, the man who as Wisconsin member of the resolutions committee of the republican national convention in 1920, read the La Follette platform and made the speech for Bob until hauled from the platform, has issued a letter in which he accuses Governor John D. Blaine as no conservative ever did. It is the first outbreak, hearing the scoundrelly stamp of the La Follette organization against Blaine. In his letter Gross says:

"Blaine Does Not Qualify. This is an appeal to the people of Wisconsin to save the Progressive cause. The result of a quarter of a century of struggle and labor on the part of Senator La Follette and his co-workers, is gradually being destroyed by John D. Blaine of Boscobel. In his greed to build up a political machine he has elevated himself, John Blaine has sacrificed the principles that elevated him to office. This appeal and these charges are based upon facts and these facts are only warranted but demand his defeat. Here are some of the facts:

"He drove from him most of the pioneer Progressives and now used to him to subvert to him instead of to the Progressive cause. "He established a vicious principle, destructive of representative government. He did this not only by upholding the emergency fund law, but by introducing a bill which would have permitted two state officials to reach into the treasury of the state without a public hearing, and the speed the taxpayers' money with the state's funds.

"The law was passed by a reactionary governor, was once condemned by him to the public's memory without legislative sanction. Under that law, he and the state treasurer voted thousands of dollars for disbursement of the state's funds without the knowledge of the people or the consent of the legislature.

"He was responsible for the defeat of the water power bill. That bill was the beginning of super-power development in Wisconsin. It was in keeping with the republican platform, which declared for conservation of natural resources and which would result in cheaper electric current to the home, the farm and the factory.

RAIL BROTHERHOOD FOR NO PARTY

Cleveland—Return to the presidential political situation and the attitude of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, W. G. Lee, president of the organization, today said:

"No matter what the attitude of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, we have never declared in favor of any political party. Conventions have, however, declared in favor of our members supporting a political candidate of labor and defeating, if possible, the political enemies of labor.

"Our last convention at Toronto went on record as favoring the securing of the unbiased records toward labor of political candidates and presenting these records to our members for their information and independent action.

"After the brotherhood laws, however, our state legislative boards have the right to endorse political candidates in their respective states only. Such state endorsement must not be construed as including the entire membership."

Does Your Motor Bear the Scars?

OLD-FASHIONED horsetraders knew where to look for signs of the temper and willingness of saddle-nags. The spur-marks—or their lack—told the story more reliably than the owners' claims.

The motor that has been consistently operated on low grade, cheapened fuel reveals like an open book the history of its owners' shortsighted economy. The tell-tale marks are there.

Poor fuel, reluctant in starting and balky in explosiveness, must be constantly driven under the spur of an over-rich mixture. The mixture, glutted to the choking point to catch the firing spark, is too wet for full, free vaporization. It burns too slowly, inducing overheating. An excess of unburned liquid sluices down the piston sides to dilute the lubricating oil.

Unloiled parts, knock-loosened bearings, over-carboned valves and piston heads are the unmistakable scars that poor fuel leaves behind; and the tragedy of it all is that the extra flogging and forcing have not even kept the saving on the gallon prices. The over-richness has swallowed it up in reduced mileage.

Wadhams True Gasoline

of highest volatility and complete explosiveness, needs no extra lashing. Its lean mixture uses the full volume of air for ideal explosiveness, leaping eagerly to the spark, thundering through with the full stride of willing power. It leaves no tell-tale scars of free carbon and oil-destroying kerosene. It is the thoroughbred of fuels.
